

Rescued by the Alien Prince

Miranda Martin

Download now

Read Online →

Rescued by the Alien Prince

Miranda Martin

Rescued by the Alien Prince Miranda Martin
Out of the frying pan and into the fire.

Senator Ling Richards is passionate about saving the Earth. So when she refuses to allow the latest mega-corporation the right to destroy one of the last nature reserves, it puts her very life in danger. To get their way, they'll kill Ling and all her allies. The only safe place to turn is off-world and the Celestial Mates dating agency offers the perfect opportunity. Ling can't say no when she sees the holographic picture of the seven foot tall, blue alien with stunning gold eyes.

Prince Naefaren Viir has been making powerful enemies with his desire to change the status quo and offer a better future for both Major and Minor houses. His foes see the perfect opportunity to force him to step down as head of House Viir by capturing and holding hostage his vulnerable human female. Even before meeting Ling, he knows he'll do anything, even give up his title, to rescue her.

Naefaren desires to mark Ling as his own for all to see with his mating bite, to make her his Pari, but sometimes the overprotective alien has to shield her from all dangers, even himself. Losing her would shred his heart to pieces and when his enemies use that against him, it threatens everything.

Rescued by the Alien Prince* is a Celestial Mates full-length novel. It is a completely standalone part of the Alva series with a happily-ever-after ending. If you enjoy hot, sexy, alpha aliens desiring strong, independent Earth women and steamy romance of the cold shower kind, then this is for you!

Rescued by the Alien Prince Details

Date : Published July 14th 2017

ISBN :

Author : Miranda Martin

Format : Kindle Edition 191 pages

Genre : Romance, Science Fiction, Aliens, Fantasy, Paranormal

 Download Rescued by the Alien Prince ...pdf

 Read Online Rescued by the Alien Prince ...pdf

Download and Read Free Online Rescued by the Alien Prince Miranda Martin

From Reader Review Rescued by the Alien Prince for online ebook

Elizabeth says

Ling & Naefaren

Ling is on the run. After been betrayed there's people after her to assassinate her. She manages to scape into the Celestial mate dating agency where she finds a way out. Finding a alien mate in another planet where she hopes her enemies on Earth will never find her. Ah! And what awaits her on the other side makes for a fantastic read. I loved this series. Highly recommended

J.R. Thomas says

Good series

I love all the celestial mates book by all the different writer's!! I love the Alva story line and hope it keeps evolving ! I would like to known more about the different times the women come from though the vast differences are fascinating but I want to read more about all the couples and their babies how many they each have and if any marry each other!!! I always want to know more after the hea like every detail about their lives til the end but bravo it's getting hard to find good books that take me away from my reality!!!

Emily Pennington says

Senator Ling Richards listened to the man sitting across from her as he gave her all the reasons she should accept his generous offer. The big corporations want to buy the last of the protected “green” area on Earth, strip it, and develop the land for their profit. But Ling has taken a firm stand on this issue. It is important to her.

Finally home, she lies in bed watching the news. A second supporter of the Nature Preservation Coalition died this evening. Coincidence? With the vote coming soon? Suddenly she felt exposed to danger, packed some clothes and left her apartment. One of her group's members called her to warn her “they” knew where she was! And as she grabbed her bag again and ran, two strangers approached the man behind the front desk and asked what room she was in. She ran and dashed into the closest building – Celestial Mates!

The Princes of the Major Houses on Alva were not happy with the changes Prince Naefaren Viir had made. They were gathered in his study to complain. They wanted to cling to old tradition, but Naefaren told them their anger was actually because the change did not directly and financially benefit them! The positive good the changes meant for the Minor Houses did not alter their opinions.

In the meantime, deciding that escaping the planet is definitely the best way to assure survival, Ling accepts the match to the Alvan prince. But not even on another planet does she find safety! Another prince meets her, saying Naefaren could not come right now. She feels skeptical but has no choice and follows him. In fact, she is being kidnapped and will be used to force Naefaren to withdraw his changes and go back to the old ways. Has she put herself in even more danger? Can she escape an alien kidnapper? Can she survive with no knowledge about this planet?

I enjoyed this book very much. Prince Naefaren was such an honorable ruler, caring for all of the people and treating all with fairness and respect. Ling is also worthy of respect as she does all she can to save a small part of Earth from greedy developers, and smart enough to recognize when there is no longer anything she can do. Even the minor characters are so well developed that the reader is aware of the things that motivate them to do what they do. The story line is also good, and is consistent with the previous books in the series. I definitely recommend this one.

Kathleen Nichols says

I voluntarily reviewed an ARC copy of this book in exchange for an honest review

This is the second book that I've read in this series and I can't wait to read more about these Alvain males. It was cute and funny which made it an easy read that was well-written and steamy sexiness. There's even some political intrigue thrown into the mix.

Prince Naefaren Viir and Senator Ling Richards relationship starts out with a kidnapping and a political threat. This is actually the reason that Ling stepped into Celestial Mates in the first place. Naefaren is a progressive Prince and he has organized other Princes to join him in his bid to change "the good ole days". Ling seems to manage to get herself into trouble and inserts herself into her new husband's meetings with the other allied princes.

This story was about a strong independent woman going to a male dominate society on Alva. She has to escape Earth and possible assassination because of her political stance on an environmental issue. She has a number of adjustments to make. She and her new "prince" husband has a lot of work ahead of them. This was an enjoyable read that I'm sure a number of you will enjoy too.

Sue Me says

Ling Richards is a Senator on Earth trying with a handful of other Senators to save one of the last green forests left on Earth. Big corporate giants want the property for new building projects. They have threatened her and the others opposed to giving up one of the last small green places. Recently two other Senators died under mysterious circumstances. She has been warned that she will be killed next unless she capitulates. She quickly packs a small bag and leaves to go to a sleazy motel. She hears a couple of thugs asking for her and she runs scared, right into the offices of Celestial Mates. Well, why not get off Earth. It may be her only chance at survival.

She is processed and told she has a perfect mate, a prince on the planet Alva. And, off she goes.

Only when she arrives, it is not the price she was expecting. His name is Malathin and he is not very nice. He takes her not to house Viir, home to Naefaren, but to House Saren and locks her in a beautiful bedroom. She tricks a guard and makes her escape, but is injured. Naefaren is thrilled to have her back in House Viir.

Major House Viir holds regular meetings with the other Major and Minor Houses to discuss trade and now defenses. They set up a means to signal one another when there is trouble. Meanwhile their houses are all thriving and their people more prosperous than ever.

The only problem is the rapidly declining birthrate. Those that have Earth brides have no problem conceiving children and more are applying to Celestial Mates, but Ling finds out that the women too want a chance at a home with children. Being a politician she plans on making that one of her priorities. She is rapidly learning the Alvan language and regularly attends the all male meetings attended by the coalition of Major and minor houses. She is learning a lot and occasionally adds to the discussions. She is keeping a notebook on her ideas for improvements. Her husband, Naefaren, used to complete control is amazingly understanding.

After they finally mate, she can feel hi5s thoughts, and he hers. It is a true match.

The world-building is done well and although there are more trials for Ling and Naefaren, they make it to their HEA. I rated this book a solid 5 stars!

Angie Turner says

I enjoyed this book

As I read thru this series I find myself slowing down the time it usually takes to read a book. Ling is very strong as an individual, she pays attention to her instincts to protect herself. But she truly shines when she becomes Naefaren's park. They make an impressive couple looking out for the greater good of their people.

Vivian Chrisman says

Finally! I have been wishing for Naefaren's story since the first book in this series. You knew his Pari would have to be a strong woman and Ling is.

As a Senator on Earth, Ling has been fighting to save what little "green space" is left. When it becomes obvious that people are willing to kill to get hold of the land, Ling runs for her life. She ends up at a Celestial Mates office where she is paired with Naefaren and transported to Alva. Ling's arrival on Alva doesn't go as planned and she finds herself hostage in a political move. Will Naefaren be able to save her? What will happen between the Houses now? I love this series, This story introduces some new Princes. It also voices an interesting question "What about the females? Don't they deserve a chance to meet their Pari?".

Hmmm....possible future books?

Tera Comer says

YES, YES, YES!! Naefaren finally gets his Pari and boy is she head strong, but he loves the idea of someone not bowing down and following every single word he says. So much change has taken place since the first Alva book and I totally want to see some of the "changes" that got brought up in this book. I received a free copy of this book and volunteered to review it

Stephanne88 says

Good read

Enjoyed this book. Loved that there was a good storyline and more than romance. Will be looking for the next book!

Sarah says

Love across space and time

I absolutely loved this one! I really am loving how Alva has some very strong males that really need the softer touch of their other half! I couldn't put this one down at all! Naefaren is definitely one man who needed a strong partner and he truly got that in Ling. I am really loving the fact that both the Alvan man and the Earth woman greatly benefit from their union! There is much change on Alva and I can't wait to see who is next!!

Nikki Brooks says

Ling is one of the few politicians left on Earth trying to protect the few green area left. But when her allies begin to have accidents and unexplained deaths she realises that she could be next.

Whilst trying to lay low she ends up within Celestial Mates office and finds herself matched to an alien Prince- surely she'll be safe on another planet?

Prince Naefaren Viir is a progressive and popular leader with his House, just not with all of his fellow Major House Princes! He has applied to Celestial Mates for a bride but is incensed when she is kidnapped on her way to him. When she manages to get away and ends up injured, Naefaren is on the edge of war with the Prince who dared interfere with his intended Pari!

Naefaren is a caring, sharing kind of Prince and wants to have more inclusive ruling with his subjects. Ling, with her background in politics is just what he needs in a strong, capable and articulate bride. Great read.

Space Cowgirl says

?Love, Alien Style

Ling?? is running from big government goons who want to kill her, when she ducks into a place called Celestial Mates. She knows she can't hide on ? Earth much longer, so she agrees to register, because the employee tells her she Will Be going off planet!?

When the employee shows her a full size hologram of her alien male match, she is completely wowed. He is humanoid????? but he's seven feet tall, blue skinned, with pointed ears, and totally handsome and unbelievably ripped ?. Oh, and he's a Prince?! YEHAW!

Prince Naefaren?? has his own problems on his planet? of Alva. Their society is deeply divided by caste. There are major and minor houses and major and minor Princes. They must form trading and military alliances. But deep prejudices exist that threaten Naefaren's? dream of uniting his people and planet. There are those that want nothing to change.

They also need the matches of their males with human women, the only children being born are from human women. The purists are against the crosses of Alvans? and humans, and they are against all trade between the major and minor houses.

YEHAW! Ride Em Bareback?,Cowgirl!?????

I liked the book, there was a real story going on besides the romance between Ling? and Prince Naefaren???.

Rebecca Grove says

Ling is a senator on Earth who is doing her best to protect the last of Earth's green nature areas but companies are putting pressure on her to release the land for exploitation. When the companies find out that she won't listen to the lobbyists, they send hitmen after her. She escapes and hides in the Celestial Mates office. When she realizes that she could have a mate from an alien planet, she agrees to the testing. They find out she is a match for Prince Naefaren so they transport her to Alva. When she arrives she is very surprised when she is met by another prince. That Prince say he is there to take her to Naefaren. Ling is uncomfortable but she has no other choice but to go with him. She soon finds out that the prince who met her is opposed to Naefaren and he has kidnapped Ling to force Naefaren to do his bidding.

Prince Naefaren is one of the leader for change on Alva. He does his best to make his people thrive and will overthrow any hindering traditions. He is a high prince but he respects and support lower houses. He has been longing for a mate for a long time but he hasn't heard anything from Celestial Mates yet. Then he gets a note from his biggest opposition claiming that he has Naefaren's mate and that he wants Naefaren to step down. Naefaren refuses to give in and rescues Ling.

Now Ling and Naefaren are together. Their chemistry is fantastic but they have differences to overcome. Ling is used to being outspoken and independent while Naefaren is used to being powerful and commanding. Will the two be able to live together and have they heard the last from the opposition? This is a great book. I really loved Naefaren and his open-mindedness and willingness to buck tradition to take care of people better. I voluntarily received a copy of this story and this is my honest review.

Maryjane says

Prince Naefaren and Ling

Prince Naefaren of House Viir, had registered with Celestial Mates for a pari match. However, he had no idea that he was matched with Ling Richards until after she was kidnapped on the way to meet him. I love this book and the entire series. They are fast paced and are full of action and romance. I felt like I was watching a movie and was engaged from the minute I started reading until the story ended. I want to read more about the Alva. Five stars.

Jen Winters says

I have a serious question

My review: Cotton Candy for the brain. 4 stars. Do with that what you will.

My question: if the first time a Alvan male has sex is the last person he can ever have sex with because of the bond, why is rape brought up at all? That would be like attacking someone with the intention of forcing them to be your prison guard. So the potential rapists in the alleyways that have a girl pinned are what? Going to rape her so that they can never do that to another person ever ever ever again? Why is rape even a thing in the Alvan culture? Ok, I don't think this author thought this through well enough or explained paritella well enough to make this not confusing.
