Linda Walters says

I liked this story but at times with mixed feelings. It was emotional and had the ability to help you feel some of the emotions that were going on. It was a little bit different but had good main characters.

And had a great hate/love relationship between two people who could be considered secondary characters. Zane's best friend Carl and the local fireball Candy were driving each other crazy with their off and one attraction to each other. It was fiery when and then after that it was one step forward and then several steps back. Things were going much better with Zane and Leslie but that wasn't perfect either. Zane only shared so much of himself and not a bit more. Although the attraction between the two of them was intense, there was also a walled off part of Zane. To be expected considering the life he had led and the injuries that he was recovering from. Both Zane and Carl were warriors, with the memories to go with it.

Watch for two big twists at the end. The first one was like a punch in the stomach. But hold on, the ending is worth it.

Zane Ackerman had been a soldier of fortune. After being seriously injured, he has one more job to do before he can retire. He decides that he wants an heir to carry on the family name should he be killed on this last mission. He chooses Leslie Walker to be the mother of his child. So, he woos and weds her. Will he survive this last mission. Likable story.

I had some doubt but it pulled though. I was legit upset for a couple moments. And since I had an ebook, all of chapter ten was missing. Weird.

Sequel to Baby Blessed - SSE #895 - July 1994

4 Stars! ~ After a mission gone badly, Zane returns to his home town and buys back the house that had been in his family for generations. He's eager to restore the house to it's past glory and calls on a friend to help him find an architect. Lesley is enthralled with the beautiful house and pictures it in all it's potential. The attraction between Zane and Lesley is far more than the passion for a beautiful house. Zane wants an heir. Lesley desperately wants a child of her own. With the same goals and the undeniable attraction between them they decide to marry. But Zane doesn't tell Lesley that he has another mission to go on, this time he may not be coming back.

This is a heartwarming romance. The love scenes are passionate. The characters are very strong. There is a romance of Zane's best friend and a local store owner that is almost as strong as the main romance. Of course, both couples get their HEA

Friends who have read romance are amazed that I had never read a Macomber. Well, now I have. I can certainly see why so many would be attracted to her style. She has a definite flare for creating strong, sensual characters that seem like very real people that we all know. Will I read more from Ms Macomber? I say yes.

Good a little fun with 2 stories woven

I have to admit that this is the first that I've read with two completely different stories but they are so interwoven it worked perfectly. Both stories were good and the way it was written kept you glued to your seat and needing to read the next chapter.

Enjoyable

The characters are interesting. The book is fast reading . All characters have strong character developments and very interesting story line

This was more like 2.5? but I didn't round up because of the ending. I had a hard time following the action of this story from time to time. I enjoyed both of the storylines, but the transition between the two was difficult to follow at times.

Mary says*Great read

This one book I had not read of Debbie's and when it was on sale at a good price I just had to have it. So glad I did great love story with lots of suspense and laughs as well. Some great twists as well.

Sue Lauzon says

Although this was your typical Silhouette (same as Harlequin) romance and the ending was totally predictable, this one had a slightly different angle to it. The reader gets two stories in one!! The main story is about Zane and Lesley but it is intertwined with the romance of Zane's best friend Carl and a local girl who runs the feed store, Candy. It was an interesting concept and at times I was more interested in their story (Carl and Candy) then the main characters LOL.
