Bingle Boo! This is now one of our favs in the series. Made up language, Striker smiths' actuon sequence and finally figuring out why Neil is called "the nude kid" even though he wears clothes. (Spoiler: he is the NEW! kid)

Guess that's what we get for ready books out of order.

Another funny masterpiece from Mr. Gutman.

Nam says

The storyline was pretty good, but I had to mark it down because AJ and his friends spend part of the bus ride 'educationally' teaching each other swear words. Not appropriate for a book for second graders. Even if that is what they talk about, books don't need to encourage it.

I thought this book was really unrealistic because a real bus driver would never have students push a bus. This book is about a boy named A.J who takes the bus to school everyday.

One day, the bus driver was taking them to school, when the kids overheard that the bus driver had to pick up a nude kid. They were all disgusted. They talked about what he would be like on the ride. They got bored because the bus driver got lost and it was a long ride, so they tied A.J's action figure with the string that his friend brought and stuck it out the window. After a while, they heard a pop and the ride after that was bumpy. The bus driver came out of the bus to see what was going on, and there was the action figure's arm stuck inside the tire. The bus driver tried to call the school, but her batteries were dead. So she decided that she would have to fix the tire herself. She finished quickly, and tried to drive, but the bus wouldn't go. They were stuck in mud. They all pushed the bus out and kept driving and they finally made it to the kid's house. The bus driver honked the horn and a man came out. He was the kid's dad and he said that the kid's mom drove her son to school that day. They went back to school, but then it was time to leave school so they all went back in the bus. That's why the bus driver is crazy!

We started reading the books in the My Weird School series by Dan Gutman and Jim Paillot together during storytime, but our oldest started reading ahead into the series on her own and our youngest seemed to lose interest. Occasionally, like with this book, our youngest will express interest and we'll read the story together. Our oldest likes me to read them aloud, even though she's already read the books on her own.

This story features a very strange bus driver who takes the children on a day-long bus ride and a wild adventure. It's a short and funny book and we had a few laughs talking about the plot. We enjoy these stories and have put the next few books in the series on hold at our local library.

I just read that book. It was good. My favorite part was when they found out that the nude kid was at school and when Ms Kormal found out she was mad.

Vitor says

It is cool. I like it. And is very fun one time they was going to the nude's kid house but he was not there

Helen says

A real laugh-inducer. If anything can go wrong, it will on this wild bus ride. A.J. causes trouble, but he gets to be something of a hero too.

The second and third graders at my school love these books. They like that they are funny and use words like "shut up", "dumbhead," and "butt" as well as the exaggerated humor, some of which they don't always get. What I like about these books are the many idioms contained within each. It might be fun to make a class book about all the idioms and their meanings contained within each book...and you can also use this time, if you so choose, to address why using the words "shut up," "dumbhead," and "butt" in school are frowned upon.

In this book A.J and his friends get on the bus. It was show and tell at their school and they had to bring a thing that starts with the letter S. A.J brings in his super hero. They get in the bus and start moving and A.J sticks his toy out the window and he pops the tire. Mrs. Kormel ( the bus driver,) gets out to see what is wrong with the tire. She sees it has popped and tries to call on her phone for help but her phone is dead. It looks like the are going to be stuck for a while. One of A.J's classmates Andrea is so upset because she loves school and they are missing a lot. Will they get to school or will they be stuck. Find out in Mrs. Kormel is not normal.
