NICHOLAS BLUSHING KING, RISE!

Will they finally face each other? Or will they get in trouble for fighting? Oof, that would be bad.
(That cover tho)

I think the pacing jumps between low burn romance and faster pacing. I wish it was more consisting! It is good but becoming predictable.

Adriana says

THESE DUMB FENCER BOIS GOT MY HEART ON LOCK.

I have no words other than I blooming love this series! Can't believe there are only two issues left to go. Such a fun read and features fencing, great illustrations throughout!

SPOILER ALERT

Excelente Issue, nos dio un poco de todo.

Seiji otra vez le dio tremenda arrastrada a Nick, en Fencing porque en la pelea en el closet estuvieron parejos. La verdad me encanta ver a Seiji tan intenso tratando de hacer que Nick se esfuerce más, y la tensión sexual entre ellos es tan obvia.

Ver a Bobby super emocionado por el punto que logro Nick, fue perfecto, en serio Bobby soy yo.

Y ese final tan hermoso me dio vida.

Silke says

Aww Seji and Nicholas are bonding I love it!!

This one was really wonderful. Even though I knew Nick could possibly not win yet against Seiji, it was still thrilling to watch their match. It was just on another level and I felt that everyone was quite emotional about it. Nick's resolve to make Seiji not compare him to Jesse felt so visceral, it just reflected off the page.

It was nice to see all the families for the first time. Having everyone together shows how casually diverse this series is and most of the parents were so supportive. It was especially funny to see Tanner's whole family wear Team Kally shirts coz he made them. They are just such great friends. And it definitely wasn't surprising to see just Seiji and Nick's family missing. But what happened next will always remain my most favorite scene of this series ???

"We're friends, aren't we?" has to be the sweetest thing Nick has ever uttered and Seiji's shock wasn't surprising ??? And they were actually civil to each other. Even Coach realized that they are great for motivating each other and I think that final scene proves that this is the beginning of a beautiful friendship.

Finally, my binge has ended and I have to wait more than a month for the next issue and this is going to be very agonizing... Why did this have to end on such hope and anticipation ????

Woah, I loved this issue so much! It was spectacular and breath-taking to see Seiji and Nicholas fence! They have so much more in common than I and also they would have thought. I mean, they share the same dream, they both feel kind of lonely and/or separated and they both are pretty stubborn XD

Let's be honest here, the result of their bout didn't surprise anyone but that one point, that ... Am I overrating it when calling it a miracle? Maybe. Maybe it was earned and deserved since Nicholas trains really hard.

Seiji simply is a million classes ahead of all of them but still... That growing friendship between Seiji and Nicholas (which, in all honesty, at the beginning wasn't of interest for me) turns out to drive both of them to a better. I think it were Seiji's expectations from Nicholas which caused him to hit that one time. Of course, those expectations drove him nuts but it also made him try harder and harder until it was good enough for a second. And then Nicholas knew he could do it. Even though he might not make the team and might have to leave Kings Row, he's still grateful for what Seiji helped him to accomplish and for the possible improvements Seiji still sees in him and this is why we got the chance to witness Nicholas repaying him. As diligent readers we're aware of Seiji's secluded position at Kings Row and in general, about his daily life and that he actually only lives to fence on highest standard. He's a loner and Nicholas simply changes this, not even needing permission or approval. This really was one of the most precious scenes in Fence yet! And it's not only the two of them: Nicholas also includes Bobby and that's seriously the sweetest thing he could do. There's no denying it, Nicholas is such a good friend to anyone he befriends! (This sentence sounds stupid...) I might become a fan of this trio~

Oh, and also let's take a short moment to breathe in the fact that everyone's family came to cheer for them, mothers, fathers, grandparents, siblings — and Dante who of course was there for Bobby ^^ Pls, look at how Bobby's abuelita eyes Dante!

I also loved all the other families! Tanner has a bunch of siblings and now I think I might understand a little bit why he's so... out-going (?). I mean, it's surely not easy XD Plus, he made them cheer for Kally. Okay, you can't be more obvious, boy. //both thumbs up// I actually squealed a bit when I learnt, Kally has two moms. These three looked so lovely together and personality-wise Kally seems to swing after them. Harvard's mom and dad were as great-hearted as their son is and Eugene's siblings were the sweetest, everyone going "Gene! Gene!" Then, there was Aiden's..... umm...there was Alice.

At first this one panel made me laugh out so loud. Of course, he can't even remember the name of his dad's new girl. But thinking about it, I assume his dad changes his lovers almost as quickly as Aiden does. Maybe this is why Aiden behaves like this and doesn't value love too much, maybe doesn't even believe in real love. This thought made me feel sad for him and I seriously hope, Harvard will teach him there is true love.

Finally, there's that bit we see about Nicholas' family. Like Seiji, he's alone. No one came to root for him and he's not even surprised. Neither am I. Besides, we didn't see his mom yet, so who knows what's wrong with her, what's her attitude towards her son? To be honest, I find it strange that there are so many thoughts about his father and Jesse on his mind but nothing about his mom. Hm. Am I the only one who thinks so? ... Back to Nicholas and him being alone. His thoughts depict how actually hurt he feels to be neglected and what hatred and jealousy he feels towards Jesse. Jesse, his half brother who seems to get everything Nicholas wishes for. Their dad (and his love and attention), the glory and fame as being the top ranked fencer (trained by their father), the praise — and Seiji?! (?o??) ??

"I'm not going to let him take Seiji, too."

Ooooooooookay.... (¬?¬)

Anali says

Fence #10 me pareció un capítulo muy bueno. Creo que la historia tomará un nuevo rumbo. Por fin, la relación entre Seiji y Nick está mejorando. Y Nick es adorable en cierta forma. Ya quiero verlos como amigos.

Además tengo mucha curiosidad por conocer más sobre Jesse. No entiendo porque es tan importante, pero me interesa.

Elyse says

Nicholas have finally earned some sort of respect from Eiji after managing to get 1 point against him. The two boys seem to have some things in common, like a barely existent family.

The sweet boy considers his roommate his friend! (Internal scream !!!) Well this only took 10 issues, how long will it take for more?

Shan(Littleirishbookcat) says

I'm crying that ending was the sweetest thing!!! Nicholas is so precious ???

Things I loved:

- Listen it's practically cannon that Tanner and Kally are boyfriends. Tanners whole family showed up to support Kally with Go Kally t-shirts!!
 - Tanner and Kally supporting Nicholas.
 - That whole ending!!! Poor Seiji.. he just wasn't expecting that.
 - Bobby!! Bobby's family??
 - Ha. Aidens stepmom!
 - Kally has two mums!!! My lesbian heart rejoices.
