Uriel is a womanizer. But i believe Ellie had a lot to do with making him that way. That first kiss they shared was a dare for her, but she only took the dare because it gave her an excuse to kiss the man she had been dreaming about since she met him. But he doesn't no that... yet. Now its D'eja' vu all over again. Ellie won't get a third chance to break his heart. Unless she can do some quick talking and quick thinking. Can Ellie win him over? Will he give up his total commitment to bachelorhood? Another 5 star novel. Brenda Jackson is awesome.

I have just one word. STEAMY. The sex scenes were very well written. The book was short so I figured going into it everything would be rushed, but it wasn't as bad as I expected. It was a pleasant read, and the author clearly has a knack for writing because this was super easy to get through. Over all a decent job.

I'm reviewing this book separately. This book was part of the 2 and 1 with Stern Westmoreland.

This was the first installment to her Bachelors in Demand series. I read one of the other books in the series first (Bachelor Unclaimed).

Uriel and Ellie met when they both use to go out to their Family's Lake House. But one summer when he was twenty one and she was sixteen. Ellie's friend Darcy dared her to kiss Uriel because she know how much Ellie like him. Ellie decides to take her friend up on the dare because Uriel was going about to graduate and she didn't know if she would see him again. As for Uriel he was sitting on the pier fishing and Ellie comes up and sits next to him. He know he started seeing a little differently because she was filling out. But when she sat down next to him and she started getting close and kissed him. He responded to her kiss. When the kiss lasted pass the minute she was dared her best friend Darcy came out yelling and screaming. Saying she won the bet, when Uriel hears this he looks at Ellie and asked her if that the kiss was a dare. She said yes and tried to explain but he got up he was extremely angry and basically told her he never wanted to see her again.

Fast forward its 10 years later and Ellie is at the Lake House her Aunt died and left the house and everything to her. Well at the same time not knowing Uriel arrives at his Lake House next door. Thinking he is alone he goes skinny dipping in the lake and when he comes out of the water he later notices that he is being watched. That's when he sees Ellie and the memories of that kiss they had all those years ago come back. They see each other and she finally explains what happen that day and the attraction just starts to burn hotter. To the point. They both lose control. Uriel suggest that he and Ellie have a summer fling. Even though Ellie stills has a secret that could destroy what they start to build can love conquer all in the end. Can Ellie tame the Bachelor Uriel for herself. Read and Find Out!!!

Okay I admit it...I like the two Brenda Jackson's books I've read. Light reading but still entertaining. I'm looking forward to reading the others in this series.

Sssssshhhh don't tell anyone! LOL

WELL...Mrs. Jackson delivers another SATISFYING treat with the first installment to her Bachelors in Demand series...upon reading her first erotic romance Ellie realizes how sheltered and/or lacking her own love life has been...and that Uriel is quite possibly the ONLY man that can INSPIRE and fulfill her secret fantasies...despite the fact Ellie and Uriel haven't spoken in ten years the SPARKS of desire that were SECRETLY smoldering when she was 16 and he was 21 are NOW a full blown BLAZE that will NOT be contained...so while at the Lake they agree to a "NO-REGRETS" affair...BUT will Ellie be able survive the heartbreak, when the only man she's EVER loved walks away once AGAIN..or will Uriel FINALLY realize that Ellie is not his mother and that he can put ALL his love and trust in her and NOT worry about being betrayed...it's ALWAYS fun to see a confirmed bachelor FALL...and I DEFINITELY look forward to seeing which Bachelor will be next to lose his membership to the Guarded Heart Club!

This was the first book I ever read by Brenda Jackson. A friend of mine had a Brenda Jackson book in her car and read the synopsis. I decided to check this author out so I checked out this book from a local library and fell in love with her writing. This was the one that started me on many days of enjoyable romance reading. The book took place in the summer and I read it during the summer so it was a nice summer read!

Uriel the sanctimonious ass and Ellie the doormat.

Well two stars because I really didn't find this story at all romantic. When Ellie was 16 she was in love with the neighbour boy who was 21. She wanted him to be her first kiss so she accepts a dare from her friend to go kiss him. Then her friend spills the beans (did I mention that her friend is an ass too?), and Uriel gets his nose so out of joint that he makes sure he doesn't run into her again for the next EIGHT YEARS... Yep, he sure can hold a grudge that guy! Over something so silly! So anyhow, 8 yrs later and he meets Ellie again unexpectedly, and is in insta lust. Him and his buddies have a 'Forever Bachelor' club, so he propositions Ellie to a fling for a month, no strings. She thinks about it for a week but ultimately can't resist. They have their fling, and then there is (of course) another misunderstanding, and Uriel goes off in a self righteous huff. Now the ending could make or break the story for me as I am not too impressed by Uriel and his overly sensitive pride. I would like to say the ending was a good grovel, but NOPE. (view spoiler) So even though the author tries to convince me he is devoted in the epilogue, it felt like he wasn't the same person from the rest of the story. Wish Ellie had told him where to stick his honour.

The reader, Sean Crisdon was just OK. I really don't like the voices he chooses for women. They sound kind of whiny cloying.

Ms. Jackson has started another series and I am right there with her

Good read part of the westmoreland's series. Uriel or (U) as he was referred to in the book Bachelor unforgiven.

He's the second to break the men's woman haters club.

Great plot that unfolded in the end.

Toni says

This is the first book in a new series by Jackson called Bachelors in Demand. It revolves around a group of friends whose fathers were best friends, so they all grew up together. At some point they made a pact to remain bachelors forever. Of course in the upcoming books, they will be picked off one by one!

In this one Ellie Weston is a teenage girl with a crush on her neighbor Uriel Lassiter who is several years older. Their families both spend summers at the same lake community. One summer, aware that Uriel is going away to college and she may never get another chance, Ellie's best friend convinces her to kiss him. Uriel finds out that it was a dare and is livid. He manages to avoid her for the next ten years until circumstances find them both at the lake for the summer.

Shonnie says

I love Brenda but I wish she could move away from the young virgins or the inexperience. Otherwise, I love this story. Short and sweet. Finished in one day.

One more thing that I didn't like was that the main character was 16 and her love interest was 21 when they first decided to explore. Um, (in a mocking voice) he could go to jail. (Didn't I see this on SNAPPED the other day).

Shone says

Uriel was one stubborn man in more ways than one. Who will be next Virgil, Winston, Xavier York, or Zion.

Book 1 in the Bachelors in Demand Series.
