Mariah Redding believes she's starting her life fresh by accepting a proposal to be a mail-order bride in Creede, Colorado. Things back home in Kentucky didn't end on a happy note, and she's looking forward to the chance to find the happiness she's been denied. It turns out, however, that fate has decided to play a different card.

Hans Jensen doesn't need to marry or have a family - he's perfectly content as he is. But when his sister and her husband are killed in an accident, he's the only living relative who can take in two little boys who are in desperate need of love and acceptance.

So many hearts hurting and in need of healing - can they all find what they're seeking in the town of Creede?

I didn't want to stop

Unfortunately the story ends and you don't have a choice. But to continue with each successive story is so much fun. Getting to know these awesome characters and realize how intricately their lives intertwine, how do these authors do it?

Mariah and Hans

Mariah has arrived in Creed, Colorado, as a mail-order bride. While standing on the platform she is grabbed from behind and nearly kidnapped until the Marshal shows up and stops it. Then she finds out that her would-be husband doesn't exist.

Hans is Creede's blacksmith. He has just been presented with his two nephews and told that their parents were killed in a carriage accident. He has no idea how to take care of kids.

After saving the two little boys from being trampled by a horse, she chews out their uncle and then finds herself being the kids' nanny.

Will an ornery blacksmith and a pretty nanny be able to find love with each other?

Heartwarming story

Tenderly written, bringing together grieving orphaned boys, their bachelor uncle and a beautifully loving and wide woman - and of course an angel in disguise- to live and heal each other. Skillfully written.

Love this series!

Another great book by one of my favorite authors. Really like that Marian wanted to take care of herself and went about getting what she wants. With an Angels help of course!!

Hero: Hans/the blacksmith - Heroine: Mariah

4.5* : I enjoyed reading this heartwarming and wrenching story of finding love when least expect. He had 2 young nephews thrust upon him at the same time he found out about his sister's death. She was an almost abducted mail order bride without a groom. Hans and Mariah's stubbornness and banter made me laugh! The story progressed steadily, has well developed characters with witty/humorous dialogue and a fun developing plot. This story has a very happy and satisfying HEA !!

Guardian Angel

This was a sweet clean book to read. I want to read the rest of the series from the start. Loved Mrs. Gladstone and how she gave them a gently push towards one another

Sweet Romance

Oh! How I loved this sweet story! She came as a mail order bride, almost got kidnapped, and found an amazing friend that helped her through everything! I loved how she was with those poor boys and their uncle! I loved how quickly stubborn Hans changed his mind and I especially loved her angel!

Reviewed at Historically Romantic

Mariah left her home in Kentucky, through no fault nor desire of her own, after the man she was to marry believed a lie and publicly shunned her. Now she's heading into Creede, Colorado to become a mail order bride. Was she desperate, perhaps, or simply crazy, totally possible – but she'd felt she had no other choice in the matter. She didn't realize it at the time, but her future was sitting a few rows ahead of her... and another part of that future asked for the seat right beside her on the last leg of her journey. Mariah's adventures aren't over just yet, there is still danger to be faced but her new home has so much more to offer than she ever dreamed possible.

I loved Mariah's spirit, she might be down but she certainly wasn't staying there. Through a stranger's kindness she will find herself a temporary home, a very unique benefactress, and if she's determined and stubborn enough the man she could love for the rest of their lives is here in Creede. Hans is the ultimate description of the self-contained, stubborn, doesn't need a woman in his life male. Yet, unforeseen circumstances have changed and he's needing the help of several women... and one woman in particular. He's a stubborn man, but once he sees the light, he's also a fast mover. I adored two little boys who didn't ask for what fate handed them, but knew how to love unconditionally. And one very unique and lovely angel to watch over and guide them all makes Bribing the Blacksmith a delightful romance that any Western Historical Romancer reader would enjoy – I know I certainly did.

Great book

I really enjoyed reading this book it was very different from other mail order bride books and quite surprising the characters were wonderful and the ending a total surprise . Looking forward to reading more by this author

Beautifully written.

The gossip can ruin so many lives. It is a shame when someone who is a preacher will take the word of one over his sweet fiancee. His loss. Getting on a train to start a new life Mariah still has time to help 2 young boys be safe and happy on the trip. So much goes on and it is very exciting. Enjoy reading. You can barely put it down.

Her guardian angel

Mariah heads for Creede hoping for a fresh start. On the train she meets three people who will bear a major influence on her quest for happiness. Hans is a hard working blacksmith with little time for a personal life. A wife and family are the last things on his to do list. Mariah's groom turns out to be a hoax and Mrs. Gladstone, one of her fellow travelers, takes her under her wing. Two young boys, Peter and Preston, turn out to be Hans' nephews, recently orphaned. She needs a job, he needs a housekeeper, and the rest as they say is history. History with help of a certain guardian angel.
