Jesse Deleon says

Great comic book introduction.

Here is a great comic book introduction from India for young readers. I found it enjoyable and interesting. A fan.

I DRM Free says

It does not have the guided view in this comic so you get a whole page at a time. Which makes the text a tad small to read on a Paperwhite.

DOUGLAS J BERRY says

I get a sense of deja view.

Interesting to see a hero from Mumbai. Seems like I have seen all these villains before. The cartoon will be new for 10 year olds.

Rebecca Timberlake says

Very cute, short and sweet. Little kids would love Chakra the Invincible- he's funny, kind, smart and innocent.

Elena Mia says

Pretty cool but it's kind of too light for me. Good for a child.

Charles NYANTAKYI says

Good book

This book is a good book for all age from age 6-10 to read and learn about kindness to other

Erika E S says

Mira, el pequeño con responsabilidad y teniendo claro todo lo que conlleva. Es una bonita historia.

Emma Dargue says

loved the art style in this book however the plot seemed a little childish and would have preferred more fleshed out characters and world building.

natalie gayle says

I would recommend this book, it is action pact and suitable for children.

O liked this book because it lives up to its name. only it could use some better quality other than that it was pretty good

Thais Morimoto (tatakizi) says

I love comic books like this one! Even more when it's written by Stan Lee.

I've read Ms. Marvel this year and I absolutely loved it. I had the same feeling while I was reading Rai's adventures.

I've loved meeting Chakra's character and read a little more about Mumbai. The illustrations were so cute and with funny dialogues. Without mention that the main character, Raju Rai, is so young and already feels that he have responsibilities to his city! I already want more!

I'm a big fan of diversity and it's so nice so see that authors are writting stories about superheroes that live in different places around the world and not just in the USA. I'm still waiting for a superhero that lives in Brazil. Write down the idea, authors!

Bárbara says

Super fun. I enjoyed all the short stories, but my favorite was the one involving Shadow-Runner. Chakra is hilarious.
