Beautiful history. <3

This was awful. Fortunately the story is short. The story might have made sense if it occurred over the course of a month or two, but in a day? Uh, no.

Setting: apartment in Kansas to bar in Colorado to Society headquarters to Grayson's mountain homes in Colorado.

Theme:

Truth, love, integration of bad and good side of one's nature

Characters:

Grayson Adler – a lone wolf, kicked out of his Pack; an Ancient empath; bounty hunter by direction of the Society to take down those uses their magic against humans; lonely; assigned to take Samantha in, and he finds he is very attracted to her

Samantha Fuller – one of triplets of a fallen angel and a demon... 8 years earlier she witnessed her parent's deaths at the hands of a hunter – and she heard her mother gasp, "no Jerome Cabot" so Samantha vowed vengeance against him. The night is cloudy in her mind, she was afraid, she feels guilty for not trying to step in and protect her parents, and at the end she did attack the hunter, cutting his face. At age of 21, the demon side erupts in each of the twins... and Samantha is embracing her demon side to fulfill her promise of vengeance against Jerome – she tortured a fairy (cutting off his wings) to find out where Jerome is... she doesn't have control of her demon (when a man at the bar doesn't take no for an answer she causes his pants to flame... but then her angel side apologizes and takes away the pain)

Mr. & Mrs. Fuller – Samantha's parents... when a child serial killer is let go by the courts, demon dad kills him... and the Society orders his demise. Before evil Jerome can do so and do so painfully to take their powers, Grayson takes care of it... and fallen angel mom begs to be taken also, to keep Jerome away from her and her power and to not be alone.

Jerome Cabot – Pack alpha; hunter – but a bad hunter in that he kills the subject slowly to draw their powers into himself... when Grayson kills

Anderson Stamos, director for the Society for the Elimination of Malevolent Magick –

Summary:

An interesting blending of the demon and angel, of the bad and good... Grayson captures Samantha (but his old pack knows he's in the neighborhood – and he has to knock out one of their enforcers)... and then told he must mate with her, and absorb her demon through sex... or else in 24 hours, an implant will explode in her, weaken her and make her vulnerable to other hunters.

And Grayson is patient, seductive, and explains things to her and leaving it up to her – he gets her to talk some about herself, but is very stingy about information about himself... He takes her to his cabin... he goes out to run as wolf (when he thinks she's sleeping)... and she tries to escape, but is only cold... she does scratch him with her poison, demon claw... but then he takes her home, warms her up in his bed (both naked of course : ) ... and they have sex... and she wakes to realize that her demon part is gone, and she feels empty and angry... before they can have it out he is aware that his pack is approaching and they have to hide... he takes her away from the cabin, to his magically hidden cabin a few miles away... and along the way he has pain... and goes into the woods without her, screams and returns... he is split – good Grayson is back at the cabin, weakened (kinda like the good Captain Kirk) and the bad one is with Samantha.

At the cabin he overwhelms her with rougher sex than they had before... and even pushes her into sex while an anal plug is in place... it takes her a bit, but she realizes that her cut/poison of the night before has split him, and that he (and she) needs both sides to function... she teases him back to the first cabin with the desire to have sex with the two of them together... and his good side (which is dying) realizes why she is there... they both make love to her, and when the bad one finds fulfillment in her anus, the good one and herself blast their power into him, drawing the bad one back into the good one (and Samantha takes back her demon side)... but then Jerome and pack is there, and they are both immobilized by a magic smoke bomb... she learns the truth about her parents' deaths... she accepts Grayson's explanation... they take her outside so that Jerome can kill her slowly and take her power... Grayson tells her she has unique powers and can overcome him... and she realizes she not only has her demon powers, but she also has some of Grayson's power... and she binds each of the weres, she absorbs their evil and releases it out... and returns to Grayson, his strength is back and he is healing... and she is acknowledged as able to control her demon, and to be mated to Grayson. ahhh

This book was weirder than the first book. Greyson and Samantha love felt more real but the book kept throwing me in random directions that I just don't know. I was here than here it was a bumpy ride but now I am invested In need to read the rest.

Iza says

I like "Mated to the wolf" a whole lot better than the first episode of The Ancients. At a time, I even wondered if it was written by the same author.

The hero had more strength, the heroin had more fire and the sex scenes were really hot, especially those... with the demon, my favourites.

Still, the story is a little short, so I find it hard to believe, with books this length, that the main characters always fall in love (and in sex) so quickly. But then, why not.

Not unforgettable, but enjoyable.

Kate says

The plot was pretty holey. Hot sex though. Feels like low budget erotica masquerading as fantasy/romance. Ok under some circumstances, I guess, but not what I was looking for.

Tia says

Another sister, another mating. Too similar to the first book for my taste. Substitute one vampire for a werewolf, change sisters add a different kind of revenge and you go a different book apparently.. NOT. It was better than the first but still as cheesy as ever.

BRIEF SUMMARY

Grayson is a lone werewolf, an Ancient, a paranormal bounty hunter, and empath healer. His assignment, to bring Samantha in, a Darklight, half demon, and half angel. Samantha is on the warpath in finding her parents' killer. While on the hunt for Samantha, Grayson finds himself lusting for her. With his lust, comes a new assignment given to him, mate with Samantha, and consume her dark half.

THOUGHTS (To some, it may contain spoilers)

This was a good paranormal book, that surprised me. Though the preview of the book explains Grayson's need to mate with Samantha, the plot had more to it than the oblivious.

The Society for Elimination of Malevolent Magick, assigned Grayson the task of hunting Samantha. Samantha is one of triplet sisters, who gains her power by the age of twenty one. With this power, she shows evil tendencies from her dark side that needs to be maintained. Nevertheless, this dark side consumes her with hunting down the killer who she believes killed her parents. What I liked about Samantha's character is that even though she had a strong exterior, she was still innocent in many things.

Grayson is a lone werewolf without a pack, a bounty hunter, an empath healer, and an Ancient. After hunting Samantha, his new assignment, to mate with her to eradicate her demon powers. Apart from his assignment, Grayson had many issues that he had to deal with, that will play out throughout the story. I loved his character's personality. Apart from being sexy, he had a very serious humor, if that makes any sense. He was always serious, but his delivery of what he says comes out funny and effortless.

The story is not just about the mating, between Grayson and Samantha, as there are other issues at play, which brings everything together. I found the ending to be very pleasing and interesting, when the climax of the story took place, and everything came together. Without giving anything away, I also found it interesting what the author did to Grayson's character, in regards to both characters intimacy in a particular scene.

Story: GOOD

Intimacy: VERY GOOD (& Interesting)

Enjoyment: GOOD

Maura says

Grayson is an ancient, werewolf bounty hunter with the ability to banish evil powers. He's hunting for Samantha, a darklighter (half demon, half angel) who has been letting her demon side get a bit too strong in search of the Hunter who killed her parents. Once she's captured, Grayson is ordered to mate with her and banish her evil powers.

Oy vey. This was something of a hot mess at times. It was engaging and interesting, but there were some really ridiculous plot points. For example, why on earth did Grayson have to mate with her. He makes it seem like he can only absorb the evil in her if he has sex with her, but then later talks about how he could have taken his pack leader's "evil" but he couldn't ONLY because he was his alpha. Would he have had to have sex with him to do it? If he has the ability to banish evil powers, there's no point in mating - he can just do it and send her on her way. So yeah. I kinda liked the whole demon thing and the angst created when he took her powers, but then it just got ridiculous. At one point there were two Grayson's with different powers, and then suddenly people are transferring powers with semen or something and I couldn't follow it nor were there any rules about it. Like I said, a confusing, hot mess. Then there was the fact that Samantha was way too forgiving to be believed. She nearly immediately forgives Grayson for betraying her and stealing her powers. Then the most unbelievable part! (view spoiler) And of course, I kind of had to SMH at the fact that the heroine, who was a virgin, was performing double penetration with two Grayson's the very next day. Nothing like introducing her to it gently, yes?

So a good, short story, but wildly unbelievable. Even in my paranormal and fantasy romance, I do like to have some realistic behavior.
