Envy (Seven Deadly Sins #2) Victoria Christopher Murray

By the NAACP Image Award winner for Outstanding Literary Work and national bestselling author Victoria Christopher Murray, who "creates believable women to whom readers will easily relate" (Library Journal), Envy is a novel inspired by the seven deadly sins: Gabrielle and Adrienne are elated to discover that they are half-sisters, but Adrienne wants more than a sisterly bond from Gabrielle—she wants her life.

Gabrielle Morgan has never been better. She has a devoted husband and a beautiful daughter, and the business she cofounded has grown into one of the best PR firms in the country. Just when life couldn't be more perfect, Gabrielle learns a shocking, but amazing secret—she has a sister. On his deathbed, Gabrielle's father revealed that he had a brief affair while he was on a business trip. The woman gave birth to a daughter and kept it a secret from him until the year before. Gabrielle's father tells her that her sister's name is Adrienne and asks Gabrielle to look out for her.

As an only child growing up, Gabrielle is determined to connect with Adrienne and invites her to visit Los Angeles. She wants to make up for everything that her father didn't get a chance to do, and hopes to have the kind of sisterly relationship that she's always dreamed about.

What Gabrielle doesn't know is that Adrienne has envied her from afar for years. Now that Adrienne is in Los Angeles, she is determined to have what she's always desired—her sister's life. And there is nothing that she won't do to get it.

WOW WOW WOW! This was an excellent read. This book will have you feeling so many different emotions. One minute I feel sorry for Keisha and the next minute I am mad at her. I felt that Gabrielle was so trusting.

Victoria Christopher Murray has written another great book. She will have you connecting with the characters and the plot to this story was well thought out. This book is definitely a page turner. I look forward to reading more books by her.

Envy

Wow, this book was deep. At times I wanted to jump in the book and soak the Cato out of Keisha. Especially all her sister did for her out of Love. I did consider her mother was not the greatest mom, therefore she was what she was. A very very good book. Yo Go Victoria Christopher Murray!!!!

Monique says

Envy is defined as “a feeling of discontented or resentful longing aroused by someone else's possessions, qualities, or luck”. That feeling can lead you to a very dark place. Gabrielle Wilson's life is turned upside down by one simple letter to her dad. Keisha Jones has lived a life of suffering and wants to enjoy the riches and spoils of the good life. While Elijah is the common bond between them...what is supposed to bond them together may tear them apart. Love can't always win...or can it?

Murray does it again...she wrote a page turning novel around envy, family and love. The character development is ground breaking while the flashbacks give you the background that will break your heart. An open heart can forgive but a closed mind will destroy.

Different From What I Expected

I am a fan of Victoria Christopher Murray. This book was a little slow to me. It took a long time to get to the point and fully understand the main characters. The book wasn't what I expected, but I made it through. There was a message in the writing.

Excellent!! This was a real page turner and I enjoyed every word. Gabrielle and Regan were my favorite characters, friends with a strong sister bond. Mauricio and Elijah were strong male figures and family oriented.

Keisha I had empathy for. She had been through a lot but she went too far in trying to accomplish what she wanted in life. Kudos to Victoria Christopher Murray! I look forward to the next Seven Deadly Sins novel.

This 2nd book in the 7 Deadly Sins series introduced new found sisters Gabby & Keisha. Good storyline with a touch of suspense as the plot thickened. Well rounded characters. Bella was a doll. Regan was a good friend overall. Storyline held my interest as I completed this book in less than 1 day. Good read

I really enjoyed the second book of the Seven Deadly Sins series. I have been a VCM fan for years and as usual she does not disappoint. I read this on an airplane ride. It made the ride enjoyable although there was a moment where I had to hold my tears. Themes of love and forgiveness prevail throughout the read.

Enjoyed very much the story of Keisha and Gabriella, sisters who have never met. Keisha's mother gets ill and send a letter to the man who is Keisha's father. Since Keisha's mother is a whore Keisha only found out about her father at age 14, with the aid of Mr. Stanley a teacher. It cost Keisha way more than she bargained for to get this information.

Gabriella and Keisha are polar opposites , Keisha being raised by a single mother who turns tricks for a living, and Gabriella who also lost her mother but was raised by her father.

Upon her mothers death Elijah Wilson shows Gabriella the letter from Keisha's mother along with a picture of Keisha, who is the spitting image of their father.

Keisha has little, a beat up truck that barely runs but can be slept in a few clothes and a blanket of her mothers as a remembrance. Gabriella, has it all , a loving husband named Mauricio , a daughter named Bella, her own company , and a best friend named Regan.

Regan and Mauricio do not trust this new found sister. Gabriella just wants to know Keisha, and Keisha just wants everything her sister has, minus the best friend. Elijah wants to make up for lost time. Who will get their just deserts?

I wanted to add I would love to read all the books in this series, so far I know the first one was called Lust, I can't wait to read more.

Always delivering a winner

Gabrielle started to annoy me a bit, she had the warning signs herself and her best friend told her about the lies Keisha kept dishing out. I understand Gabrielle wanting to embrace her sister as she should have, but she shouldn't have been brushing the signs under the carpet. My favorite character was Regan, smart, strong and classy. I thought the ending of this book was going to piss me off, but I was pleased with it and the sentencing. I can't wait for the next installment of this series.

Sisters

Keisha grew up in the small town of White Haven, Arkansas. It was always just her and her mother. Keisha grew up doing without many things. The one thing she missed the most was not having a father. At twenty-two, and had faced many obstacles. The latest blow is the death of her mother. At fourteen, Keisha learns she has a father and sister who live in California. Keisha has been following her older sister, Gabrielle, on Instagram since she learned about her. Gabrielle is a successful businesswoman, with a handsome husband and a glamorous lifestyle. The kind of lifestyle Keisha wants. How will she get to California so she can live the life she wants?

VCM has done it again! Envy was a great read that explored one of the seven deadly sins with prevalent themes of family, forgiveness and sisterhood. When two sisters come together after not knowing the other existed it proves to be a recipe for disaster and begs the question—is blood always thicker than water, especially if it's tainted and potentially poisonous? This was classic VCM. Writing that makes you ponder. I'm looking forward to the next in the series.

Debbie Ford Dullabaun says

How excitement about meeting an unknown sibling can go awry. How best friends can feel threatened but not be able to come to an understanding about a new sibling? First I was happy about the reconciliation of long lost family, but quickly they soured on me.

There's a song by a group called "The Undisputed Truth", and their song called "Smiling Faces...sometimes pretends to be your friend; jealousy, misery, ENVY.....you can't see behind Smiling Faces."

Family.....

Hyacinth says

This book wore me out. I was hooked from page one and did not exhale until the end. Murray has a way of building a plot to the point of physical tremors. I had to keep putting the book down as much as I wanted to finish it. My heart raced and I had to wait until it slowed down to keep reading. In my mind's eye, I could see each character. I was not prepared for that last scene and literally screamed out loud and dropped the book AND PULLED A MUSCLE IN MY BACK! I totally did not expect the ending. I did not see that coming. When I finished, I just fell back in my seat and released the breath I was holding.

Envy or Just Hurt

This is the story of Gabrielle and Keisha. Two sisters raised by two very different parents. Two very different lifestyles. Keisha who was raised in Whitehaven Arkansas and Gabrielle raised in California. Keisha mom was a lady of the night and on her deathbed decided to write Keisha's father so he can take care of her after she's gone. Even though it was a shock to Gabrielle's family they welcomed her with open arms. Not knowing the envy that Keisha has in heart. I liked her in the beginning but by the end I truly felt sorry for Keisha. The life she lived and the thing she endured. This was a great book and I can't wait for book 3.
