For The Sub Sierra Cartwright

What you see isn't what you get...

Though he was once a respected and well-known Dom, Niles Malloy rarely attends functions at the Den, and he has no interest in ever having another permanent relationship. He satisfies his occasional desire for kink by playing with subs who have no expectations.

Professional sub Brandy Hess has known Master Niles for years, and when he invites her to play with him, she accepts. But she's unprepared for the reaction she has to his intense brand of play. In their shared, emotionally intimate moments she sees the weariness in his features, and she has a dangerous and compelling urge to know him better.

Experience has taught her to never again settle for less than a man's complete commitment, yet when she runs into him outside their normal setting, neither can deny the potent and pulsing attraction. He's much, much deeper than she imagined, and she soon realises he's everything she wants and doesn't need in a man.

As she surrenders to him a second time, Brandy wonders if she's lost her sense of self-preservation. She's attracted to an enigma, a man with an edge, someone as remote as he is demanding, and her life will never be the same...

One of my favorites. Brandy one of the club subs at the Den is always picking up strays. Despite being warned by Gregario she falls for Master Nils. After inviting him to her place for a barbeque and spending an entire weekend with him she breaks it. She feels she's not in his league. But she can't forget him and loses her job at the Den because she is moping around without him. Master Nils is doing the same thing. But he has a solution.

~*~ 4.5 STARS ~*~ Posted @ <http://shaynareneesspicyreads.com>

The Mastered Series by Sierra Cartwright is one of my favorite BDSM Romance series ever! And For the Sub just confirmed that for me. Sierra's writing is amazing and her characters she brings to life are beautiful, broken, and have such a realness about them. You can't help but become emotionally attached to these characters. The story lines are always interesting and emotional and the BDSM element is never too hard, not too soft, it's just right for my kind of read. Be prepared to enter The Den curious and shy, and leave ultimately and ridiculously satisfied!

"How expensive are your panties?" "Very," she said. "Sorry in advance." "Occupational hazard, Sir."

Niles Malloy lost the love of his life three years ago, and he has never fully recovered. Every now and then he fulfills his desire for his kinky side by playing with the subs at the Den, where he knows he doesn't have to worry about getting too close to anyone. You could say he has learned to detach his heart while he plays. He can't risk losing someone he loves again.

Brandy Hess is the perfect submissive. She knows just how to please her Dom. Brandy has known Master Niles for a long time, and a simple invitation to play, turns her world upside down. She never realized the impact that one scene had on her life. She wants to know more about this man, emotionally and sexually. Brandy knows that Master Niles has a side to him that no one can touch, no one can break through. But the more she is with him, the more she can't seem to walk away, even though her heart wants to fix this man, her head is screaming...RUN AWAY!

The interaction between Brandy and Niles started at a slow burn, and the more they played with each other, the more sensual and raw their connection had become. They reached a point where they were so in tune with each other, you couldn't help but feel that link, that bond between the two. I don't have to tell you that along with the emotionally aspect of these Mastered books, the play scenes and the love scenes were both scorching hot! There are scenes in the Den, in an elevator, and.....wait for it....a scene with a bidet! No, I am not kidding! It's weird, and it's freaking hot! When all is done, and everyone is in love, you exit the Den feeling a bit sad, but that doesn't last long, because you just know that Sierra will invite us back and lead us in to the mind of a tortured Dom and the woman who will heal his soul.

I enjoyed this book, but not quite as much as the others in the series. Brandy is a professional sub at the Den and has known Master Niles for a couple of years, but has never played with him. Brandy likes her life, getting her needs met with her subbing at the club, taking care of all her animals at home, building her web design business, and protecting herself after a bad relationship. Master Niles runs a video production company where he makes BDSM videos. He keeps everything professional with the actors, occasionally tops a sub in the club, but has not had any type of relationship since his beloved wife Eleanor died three years ago. One night at the Den Brandy sees Master Niles looking particularly haunted and offers to scene with him. They both really enjoy themselves, but since neither is looking for any relationship, that's the end of it. Until Brandy runs into Niles in a supermarket and invites him to her barbecue on the spur of the moment. They both find a connection they didn't think they'd find again, but that neither is sure they want. I liked that two closed off people found each other and both of these characters were very likeable. What was somewhat annoying is how much Brandy talked while they were having sex. I am looking forward to reading the next installment though!

What a sweet and loving story, with whippings!

There is something to be said about realizing what is right in front of you, and that is what happens to poor Master Niles. Wrapped up in the grief since his wife passed away, he finally sees house sub Brandy as an attractive woman.

Brandy has always noticed Master Niles, she worries about the pain in his eyes but when he finally shows some inkling towards her, she jumps at the chance.

The romance blooms outside the den, a chance meeting has them acting on their mutual desire. Brandy embraces her submission and draws such pleasure from it and is everything Niles beloved wife wasn't.

Niles is sure he will never fully commit to a sub or wife again, all he knows is he enjoys his time with Brandy, playing and spending time together, and doesn't want to be away from her Brandy sees what is going on, and rather than get lost in an inevitable painful ending, has to make a difficult choice. Niles can only agree with her as he isn't where he needs to be to make her happy.

The path to the HEA seems to flow smoothly until reality intrudes abruptly and finds its way back just as unexpectedly. A sometimes painful but truly warm love story about knowing who you are and accepting your own enjoyment and limitations, as well as embracing what you need and want

Even though I read this after Master Damian's book, I didn't lose any of the story, although I'd known that Brandy had moved away from the Den. She changed jobs!

So we have all got to know Brandy over the whole series, and quite honestly I loved her, she was always there at the Den, but in a very inconspicuous way! she was the epitome of a sub! All the long standing members respected her, Dom's and sub's alike.

We'd only met Master Niles through a previous event held at the Den, when he came to Brandy's rescue.

As I have said before Sierra certainly knows how to tell a story! she holds your interest from the beginning, and this is no exception, I totally enjoyed the dynamics between Niles and Brandy, their infatuation just grew into a deep foreboding love.

I loved how sassy and smart mouthed Brandy was, how she valued her friendships inside and outside of the Den. John and Margot were very protective of her, and had no qualms in telling Niles. How Brandy thought she could fix everything, taking in strays, just emphasised her compassion, and that she wouldn't do anything that could possibly harm anyone or thing!

Even though I understood why she drove away, it was still heart wrenching! it was wonderful when things turned around for them both, very well deserved!

After hitting "the end" in this book I kept thinking how to sum it up and to describe it all .... the only thing that came to mind is this

"Gentle brutality"

BDSM genre is pretty popular and everyone wants to write it, and there is a whole bunch to choose from, but let me tell you (as an avid reader) there is only 5-6 writers worth your spare time, and Sierra is among the crowd (disclaimer: I didn't get to other authors so don't bite my head off for this comment, I'm sure there are more out there).

this is really a kink masterpiece !!! Niles and Brandy is what happens when you get hurt and burned by life and you get the chance to live again ! you have issues ... and they hold you back from enjoying it full speed

Niles and Brandy each have their own past, and issues (can you read DRAMA) but they are sooooo compatible together they set me (a mousy reader) on fire by the mere words on paper (read:screen). and then they are too afraid of repeating the mistakes of the past and getting hurt again ! I mean OMG !!!! I wanted to smack them one upon the head but Sierra did it for me (she's good at reading mind like that) the sex and the kink is THAT good and hot as a sauna hihihhi I smell *snickers* a re-read !!!!! definitely a book worth your time, money and nerves !!!

This started off slow. Maybe because it's been well over a year since I read the last one. It ends up being a page turner and I'm so ready for number 6. This is one of my favorite authors.

For The Sub is Brandy's book. She is mentioned briefly in the previous books as a sub for The Den which is how she knows Master Niles from. Their love story is an emotional tug of war of sorts for both of them. I love the way they are together and how their desire is fed from the other. I loved their book.

When a submissive who is also wife and lover dies, how does a Dominant survive?

Master Niles is an experienced Dominant who is on auto pilot. He still scenes but it's all impersonal. He functions as a Top and doesn't need the D/s anymore. Brandy Hess is a submissive at the same club as Master Niles. They have crossed paths several times but never enjoyed a scene together. The timing is never right. This time, during a private party, a spark generates between the two.

The BDSM in this story is sweet and light. Ms. Cartwright is always a good read who creates BDSM scenes with steamy sensuality. The BDSM is realistic and gives interested kinky readers a good vicarious read. The plot of this story is sweet and simplistic. The world building is realistic with a contemporary vibe. The characters are really what make this story enjoyable.

Brandy is a woman with a soft heart. She adopts pets and humans who need help. Too bad the humans usually burn her. No good deed goes unpunished. The more endearing one is Niles who woos Brandy through her pets. It is sugary sweet and will make many a female sigh in desire.

The conflict in this story is a bit contrived but it's understandable. The issue I have with this story is how easily it is resolved. It felt too hurried. Still, it is a romance which means a happily ever after is required. It is a good, plausible ending.

This series is a great one to introduce erotic readers into the kinky side of life. Each one of these shows a human side to the lifestyle. It's not all pleasurable thorns with the roses; there are ups and downs. This book is perfect as a Gateway to BDSM selection.

I got used to a certain level of writing from Sierra Cartwright, I love everything I've read by her. Totally love the Mastered Series. But this book, I just wasn't really sure about. It felt like I was reading a story that was just written because it had to be, not because it needed to be.

Brandy has been in past books, but I'm not sure she deserved this book, or maybe she didn't deserve the way this book was written. The whole book felt like filler to me.

The ending felt so rushed, Master Niles and Brandy went from Point A to Point B to Point G without more in between. While they spent a couple of good weekends together, there was still much more they needed to learn about each other before the plunge the book took at the end. But I do understand that this is a book and timelines have to be a bit more rushed than normal. I guess I just felt there could have been more discussion, or more time in just a relationship before the whole marriage thing came up. The book would have been fine ending with them just deciding to work on having a relationship.

But all in all, I enjoyed the times that Brandy and Master Niles were together, their scenes were well written. And I enjoyed the antics of the animals, and the gift of the plastic dog toy, foot, that Master Niles gave to MW.. that part of the story was just priceless.

Master Niles seemed like a very sweet and compassionate Dominant. And Brandy surprised me at being such a feisty submissive, to the point of really pushing some boundaries. I did like the characters and their connection, and for the most part I did feel that connection between them.

I'd say this book was a 3.7 star rating for me, so I'm rounding it up to a 4. I'm looking very forward to the next book and Master Damien's story!
