A Tale of Yearning and Death Elia Mirca

Juliane finds ways to escape her pursuers in Cologne and now flees to her husband in California. For that she had to abort her university studies. Her prior sexual encounters had taken such a big toll on Juliane that her psyche was deeply hurt. But regardless, she will not confide into anyone. In her new homeland of California it is her husband who, for his professional aspirations and over ambitiousness, drives her into a new affair. Unrelated violence and abuse that she faces become part of her daily fears and anxieties. Again, Juliane needs to call her own shots while facing dangers that pale in comparison to the risks she was exposed to back in Cologne. She becomes deeply involved in crime and murder.
