I really love the illustrations in this book. The animal faces are very expressive and there are lot's of opportunities for kids to guess what's coming. Bear is big and not very good at hiding, so rabbit finds him easily, becoming a little exasperated at Bear's poor attempts at hiding. When the two decide to switch and rabbit does the hiding, bear disappears, but it won't be hard for the kids to guess where he went. Perfect for a preschool storytime!

Shandra says

Very cute, with excellent illustrations! Great for toddler/early preschool.

Alyssa Tabor says

Short enough for Storytime. Might be short enough for 0-2 storytime.

Julian Hilton says

Love this book. Such lovely illustrations.. opportunities to count, and a lovely back and forth between two soul-mates. It's an easy size to put in a bag if you're going out too, unlike some board books you might have to leave at home because of size!

J says

So cute. Read this to some groups of preschoolers and they all enjoyed it.

Laura says

A beautifully illustrated board book focusing on counting between one and ten. My two year old son thoroughly enjoyed this one as we pointed at each number.

Chris says

This is very funny and touching. The illustrations are lovely.

For the littlest - rather boring for me (even though there are lots of picture-books I adore). I do like the heavy paper - the book will last longer in toddler's hands, and be less likely to need to be replaced by the lending libraries. Not too big, lively but not too busy or over-stimulating illustrations, and an implausible but neat sort of a twist at the end.

This cute installment to the Bear & Hare series will have young readers giggling as the two friends play hide and seek. Bear isn't very good at hiding, as Hare finds him right away each time. They switch and Hare is a little too good at hiding. The adorable illustrations will make this a fun read.

Ina says

This very clever book is a concept book as there is a lot of counting from 1-10. It has very simple vocabulary and lots of rhyming making this a reflect read aloud for a very young audience. The characters are charming and funny and the illustrations are just wonderful.

Jenny says

Perfect storytime book for toddlers and preschoolers.

Melissa says

The kids in storytime loved this. Have them close their eyes and count with you.

Samantha says

Bear and Hare play hide-and-seek. At first, Bear isn't so great at hiding, but Hare is such a good hider that they momentarily lose one another!

Just the right touch of humor for toddlers.

Elisabeth says

Bear's last hiding place is pretty genius. I'm totally going to try that during my next game of hide n seek.

Angie Quantrell says

Cute book for younger readers. They will love finding Bear and Hare as the story is read to them. Delightful illustrations.
