Denise says

This felt like a mixed bag to me. Some of the stories were heavy handed with the morals and lighter on believability. There were one or two I enjoyed more and overall it was a calm distraction from weightier reading.

Marty's Ride

Marty is in for the ride and experience of her life when she rushes to save her two nieces that were kidnapped from their home. She expects hardships and difficulties. What she doesn't expect to find is God, love, and friendships.

A Time to Keep

Rosalind doesn't want to marry the man her mother is pushing her towards. So when the railroad men come into town she comes up with a plan to open a diner in an attempt to spend time with a man who interests her.

Beyond Today

Amy has always lived in the shadow of her vivacious twin sister. But when a man comes to town that peaks her interest she learns to plan ahead for her future.

Myles from Anywhere

Myles left home when he was a teenage, running from a stifling home situation. But now he's a grown man and has made the mistake of falling in love with his boss's girlfriend. Myles must learn to forgive and heal before he can have the girl of his dreams.

Letters from the Enemy

Lilly has promised to marry Reggie. But he's overseas fighting the Germans. So she writes him letters while waiting at home for his return. But when she runs into a man that is clearly German her heart beats like it never has with Reggie. Lilly is torn between a promise and her heart's desire.

Each of these stories are sweet and romantic. I enjoyed each one of them, but Beyond Today and Letters from the Enemy were my favorites. Each story is a stand alone and is tied together by the theme. Each story brings out an element of faith that makes the story clean, refreshing, uplifting, and romantic.

I received this book free of charge from Barbour Publishing in exchange for my honest review.

Lueann Sawyer says

This book was so hard to put down. With each story I was captivated by the women and their faith and how they followed Gods calling on their lives and found true love in the men they each married!!! Great Christian romance!!! The scriptures throughout where also a blessing to read and it helped tie each obstacle faced with biblical reference to Gods promise or one of Gods commandments!!! Loved this book can't wait to experience more!!!!
