Lee F. says

Grounded me...

Angela Joyce says

I am grateful to have read this, a page a day for a year. It gave me much to think about, whether I agreed with every page or not.

Tom says

Too much like little vitamin pills for your soul.

Tomas Svoboda says

Very enlightening short thoughts.

writer... says

Daily thoughts introduced in brief excerpts of Richard Rohr's writings, edited by John Feister. Variety of book sources cover a great span of topics. Some challenging, others comforting. Quotable and spiritually insightful. Whether or not theologically agreeable to all readers, there is much thoughtful material to mull over. As founder of the Center for Action and Contemplation, Rohr encourages, "The simplest spiritual discipline is some degree of solitude and silence."

In keeping with this year's Lent theme at Faith Hope & Cherrytea, I quote from this 5th week of Lent Day 145 ~

"Christian life, then, is a matter of becoming who we already are." ~ Sojourners

Dated according to the Christian year eg Ash Wednesday, Thurs, Fri and Sat after Ash Wed, 1st Sunday of Lent, etc keeps it fresh and dated by day of year rather than by any particular monthly date and year.

Recommended for readers pursuing more on understanding or living a reflective, contemplative Christian spirituality.
