Laurie says

This is one of the most enjoyable Christian chick lit novels I've read in a long time. I didn't realize it was part of a series; it stands on its own. Fun and entertaining, but with some good thoughts to mull over.

Love the small town of Pritchett. Great example of how it's now what we do as long as we do it with God in mind.

This is the 3rd in a series about a small town called Pritchett and the residents of this town.

This story focuses on Heather, the daughter to Bernice and Alex, although she didn't find this out until the 2nd book (I think, maybe the 1st). Bernice and Alex have finally gotten married and left on a 2 month honeymoon through Europe. Heather, having her cosmetology license, takes over running the Cut and Curl for Bernice and really gets involved in small town life.

Along the way she meets 2 guys, is one destined to be her soul mate? You'll only find out if you read the book!

I thoroughly enjoyed this book and it was a very fast read for me.

This is the third book in the series about a small town called Pritchett. I originally grabbed the first book, Front Porch Princess, to read for a school assignment, not expecting much other than a quick read. I was pleasantly surprised! I fell in love with the characters and actually found some great wisdom amidst the humor and love stories. I really enjoy Kathryn Springer's writing style. She made me laugh and cry and I didn't want to put this book down! If you want a great book about faith and love, and friendship, try this series!

This may be my favorite book of all time. The characters are so quirky and charismatic that one can't help but love them. I found myself relating to the main character, Heather, so it was like reading a book about myself. This book offered great wisdom, and I sometimes find myself referencing the book for its wise words.

I would lovelovelove for a sequel to this book to see where the story and lives of Heather and her friends continue to go.

Favorite quote: Which made me suddenly wonder if moms had a list for their daughter's future husband, too.

I wish I'd read this book when I was 20. Heather isn't really looking for love or a reason to settle down in Pritchett, but she is at an age when marriage is an appealing prospect and every guy looks like a candidate. Heather spends a lot of time trying to justify a relationship with a guy who just doesn't want the same things as her... particularly her faith. Meanwhile, a special friendship forms naturally with a guy whose heart IS after God.

The story moves along nicely with the same sort of lovable characters from Springer's other Pritchett books. I especially like all the time we get to spend in Heather's head as she tries to figure out where her heart is leading her... and if she should trust her heart or her faith. This book is a great read for young women thinking about dating or courting in a world that pressures them to do more than what is good for their bodies, minds or hearts. Self-control is possible, even when temptation is real.

Sara Parker says

This is a very sweet book. It's about a girl who has a list of what she's looking for in a man, hence the book title, and discovers along the way what she really wants out of life. It's not mind-blowing, but it is well-written and lighthearted. It will definitely put a smile on your face and you will remember it for years afterwards, but it's not one of those life-changing books that you'll go back to over and over again. All in all I think it's definitely worth a read.

Pedmy says

My first ever christian romance novel! It was a light read although as someone who does not actively go around talking about my personal faith it took a minute for me to get used to how loud Heather is about it in every situation except one of the ones that seems to be most important to her. Kind of annoying. But she is kindhearted and the novel itself is pretty funny.
