Angela Shirley says

Mr. Mitchell continues his story from the first installment and we continue our journey with our heroine. Yes, I said heroine. She proves that in spite of how many times we fall down, we can get up and overcome. What I liked about this installment was the fact that she had the support she needed. Sometimes this support may come from our own generation or older. It is always wisdom to get quiet and figure out why certain things keep coming into our lives. While we cannot predict tomorrow, we can learn from our mistakes and learn from others. This increases the chances of our tomorrows getting better instead of worst. Well done Mr. Mitchell, heading to read the 3rd installment in this series!
